SEVENTH HOLDS THE CAMP.

ITS ANNUAL TOUR OF DUTY AUS

A Piensing Send-Off from Its Women Friends—The Task of Belleving the Twenty-third Expeditiously Accomplished— Cheering Message from the Governor. STATE CAMP, PERESEILL, June 17 .- New York's crack regiment, the Seventh, owns this eamp to-day, with all that in it lies, and for the next week it will conduct the affairs thereof secording to its own notions. Right through the regiment, from top to bottom, there is the feeling that this year's camp must surpass all former records in its military conduct. The Seventh hasn't forgotten that it was bissed in the streets of New York on Memorial Day, and that its friends came loyally to its support, and it is here to show, so far as it can, both its friends and its enemies, that in point of diseipline and conduct it is the same old regiment. It has begun its good work by showing

All the morning the armory in New York was filled with men looking after their things and fixing up their outfits, for the guardsmen are allowed to bring trunks and values with them, and there are few who did not avail themselves of the privilege. At 12:30 the regiment marched out from the armory amid the hand-clapping and handkerchief-waving of its families and friends massed in the galleries. The men wore full fatigue uniforms, with leg-gings. They carried Merriam packs, with pouches, blankets, overcoats, haversacks, canteens and tin cups. Meethus burdened do not rejoice in warm weather, and even the moderate heat of yesterday brought out drops of perspiration as the soldiers marched down Fifth avenue. Few people were out and the march to the Grand Central Station was uneventful. There three sections were waiting for the regiment; the work of embarking was quickly accomplished and at 1:45 the Seventh WAS Off.

Rumor among the men had had it that they were to disembark at Peekskill and march the three hilly, dusty miles to camp, but this proved to be without foundation, and the soldiery, luxuriously occupying plush seats and being hurried campward at the rate of forty miles an hour, exchanged sentiments of the Twenty-third came in from the march. They didn't look like any feative picnickers. I nearly got astigmatism from the red glare of their faces, and they averaged ton pounds overweight from the dust they swallowed." "Oh, that's all right!" cried the chorus, "We won't mind little things like that." "Do us good to get some color." "Hard work's what we're here for-harder

There they stood in regimental front, having marched over from the parade ground just in time to meet the relieving regiment, the men in their blue shirts, with sleeves rolled to the show, showing deep, brown arms, and many of them wearing red neckerchiels, which set off the tan of their complexions. They had been paid off in the morning and had been let off from drill for the day. They were a well-hardened looking lot, and their whiter-skinned brethren gazed at them with interest.

Daniel Appleton rode in at the head of his regiment, the Twenty-third presented arms Beaindthe(Colonelcame Meyer's Seventh Regiment Band, led by the Seventy-first's veteran drum major, John M. Smith, who has been acting as superintendent of the post, but who left his civilian duties temporarily to get into uniform and take his old place. The right of line was held by Company E, formerly communided by the late Capt. Rhoads, who was killed in New York by a trolley car last week. He was senior Captain, and out of respect to his memory the honor of precedence was given to his company, now under command of Lieut. Pressinger. The regiment marched in fine order.

Meantime the work of relieving the guard of the Twenty-third was going on under Lieut. Harry C. Duvai of the Seventh, the officer of the guard, and so swiftly was it done that before the Twenty-third was ready to start its guards, both in camp and at the outpost, were gentlemen of leisure for a few moments. It was 3:15 when the Seventh took possession of the camp, and the Twenty-third, breaking into column, marched out, led by the Squadron A band, whose duty here is over, to take train at Roa's Hook. the band playing "Home, Sweet Home" and "The Girl I Left Behind Me." As an offset to this the drum corps played "Ain't I Glad to Get Out of Jerusalem."

As soon as the tents were reached there was a general bastic to get things in order, and the place buzzed like a beehive until mess call. Then it was a sight to see the eagerness with which the men jumped to the call. There was appetite as well as discipline in that. After mess there was the parade drill, in failgue uniform. Dress uniforms were not brought, for this is to be a camp of work, not of show. After drill the men gathered in the tents and discussed the prospects of the practice march, in which they are much interested. The Seventh is very keen on tactics, and the march, as if through a hostile country, gives opportunity for field tactics.

Capt. Lydecker is the officer of the day. Tomorrow the Rev. Percy Grant will conduct services in the absence of the regular chaplain, the Rev. Dr. David H. Greer. Two large excursions are expected up from New York tomorrow, and there is an extra force of detectives from New York here to look out for crooka among the excursionista. Detective Sergeants Cain and Stripp have been detailed for this duty in addition to Detective Sergeants Valley and Millburn, who have been here right along.

At 7:15 this morning the Third Battery At 7:15 this morning the Third Battery marched out of came and took the road for the return to New York. They will came at Ardsley to-night and reach Brooklyn to-morrow night. The men are in good condition and declare that the experience of the present camp and the march up has been of more value to them than any previous instruction, because of its practical nature. The First Battery is expected to arrive to-morrow at noon, "Seventh's luck," is the word around camp regarding the weather. The air is cool and bracing and the roads are in fairly good condition, as enough rain has failen during the week to lay the worst of the dust.

This evening Brig.-Gen. George Moore Smith, with his staff, arrived in camp. Gen. Smith was sainted with nine guns.

A telegram from Gov. Roosevelt of congratulation and of regret at not being able to be in eamp was read at parade drill by the Adjutant this evening.

FIRST BATTERY AT NELSON PARK. As It Marched In the Third Marched Out-To Reach Peekskill To-Day.

SING SING, June 17.-The First Battery, Na. tional Guard, arrived at Nelson Park early this afternoon, where it pitched its tents to camp for the night. It is on its way from its armory in New York to the State camp at Peekskill. In New York to the State camp at reassant.
Just as the First Battery reached the approach to the park the Third Battery, which had stopped there for luncheon on its march from Peckskill, was all lined up ready to march.
The two batteries salued such other as they passed, and their cheers echoed through the neighborhood.

The First Battery men had their tents pitched, their horses cleaned and their meas ready in less than an hour, and Capt. Wendell, who who was in command, was pleased with their conduct. They left van Cortland Fatt at 7 in the morning. Reveille will be sounded at 5 o'clock to-morrow morning, and at 7 the battery will resume its march, expecting to reach the State camp at noon.

The Twenty-third Welcomed Home.

The Twenty-third Regiment got back to Brooklyn at about 7 o'clock last night after i week in camp and on the march. The men crossed South Ferry in special boats and were crossed South Ferry in special boats and were loudly cheered on landing at the foot of Atlantic avenue. The march to the Bedford avenue armory was by way of Atlantic avenue. Clinton street, Schermerhorn street, Nevins atreet, State atreet, Hanson place, Greene avenue, Clinton avenue, Gates avenue and Bedford avenue. A large and enthusiastic crowd awaited the arrival of the regiment at the armory, and it received a warm welcome.

THE GROUNDING OF THE BROOKLYS. SHOT WIFE AMD HIMSELF.

Court of Inquiry Acquite Her Officers of Responsibility-Struck a Wreck. WASHINGTON, June 17 .- In accordance with the recommendation of the Court of Inquiry which investigated the circumstances of the injuries to the Brooklyn on May 30 last, in New York harbor, no further proceedings in the matter will be taken. Capt. Jewell and all the other officers of the Brooklyn were acquitted of responsibility. The report of the cour shows that the Brooklyn struck a sunken wreck, and on account of that finding the Navy Department to-day requested the Lighthouse Board to place a buoy over the obstrucexistence, in order that it might be removed by the army engineers. A copy of the findings of the court was obtained to-day. The sour by the army engineers. A copy of the findings of the court was obtained to-day. The court ears:

"The evidence established the following facts: The Brooklyn, Capt. Jewell commanding, left the navy yard, New York, about 1 o'clock on May 30 last to proceed up North River off Grant's tomb to fire a salute, which had been ordered by proper authority. The court is of the opinion that the ship, in passing down the East River around the Battery on her way to the North River, was navigated with care by her commanding officer, there being no pilot on board, with leadsmen in the chains. That she was proceeding at practically high water at a moderate speed, and that there was no evidence of negligence on the part of any person on board. In passing through the channel between South Ferry and Governors Island, the track followed was north of the range leading through the best water and on the north side of the channel indicated by the chart. The ship passed in water of sufficient depth, there being not less than 28 at low tide. From the testimony of witnesses to the fact that wreckage came up in the wake of the ship, and from the evidence of the naval constructor who examined her in dook, we are of the opinion that the injury to the Brocklyn was caused by her striking a wreck. In the opinion of the court no further proceedings are necessary."

RETIREMENTS OF NAVAL OFFICERS,

Opinion by Judge Advocate Lemly on the Operation of the Personnel Act. WASHINGTON, June 17 .- Capt. Sam C. Lemly, the Judge Advocate General of the navy, has rendered an opinion, at the request of the chief of the Bureau of Navigation, concerning the manner of making voluntary retirements under the provisions of the new Personnel act. which prescribes that there shall be forty retirements every year. Capt. Lemly shows that the applicants for voluntary retirement consist of seven Commanders, eight Lieutenant-Commanders and twelve Lieutenants, and sums up or seven commanders, eight Lieutenant-Commanders and twelve Lieutenants, and sums up his opinion as follows:

"There are already fourteen vacancies above the grade of Commander. Thirteen only being contemplated by law, no Captains will be retired. Above the grade of Lieutenant-Commander eighteen vacancies now exist. The law prescribes twenty; therefore, two Commanders will be retired. Above the grade of Lieutenant there are twenty-two vacancies. The law prescribes twenty-ine; therefore, seven Lieutenant-Commanders will be retired. Above the grade of Lieutenant junior grade it here are thirty-one vacancies. Adding the voluntary retirements, as above indicated, i.e., two Commanders and seven Lieutenant-Commanders, nine in all, we have a total number of vacancies and voluntary retirements under the method supposed of forty. As the law prescribes forty, it happens that this method fulfils all requirements, upon the actual basis of thirty-one vacancies this year existing, above the grade of Lieutenant (junior grade).

Under the opinion of the Judge Advocate General the only officers whose applications for voluntary retirement will be granted are Commanders H. S. Ross and J. L. Hannum, recently transferred from the Engineer Corps to the line, and Lieutenant-Commanders W. H. Driggs. Theoderic Porter, J. H. Moore, R. G. Peck, G. C. Hanus, D. A. Fisk and F. H. Holmes.

As Mrs. Dorsch arose to save hisraelf, she received a bullet in the left breast, and as she turned to run into Schweigert's kitchen, Dorsch fired a second time, the bullet entering her back near the heart.

When Dorsch began to shoot Schweigert's wife was in the kitchen, and their 7-year-old daughter Edith was lying ill on a lounge. The shooting frightened the girl, and she rose from the lounge just as Mrs. Dorsch staggered toward it after being shot the second time. Mrs. Dorsch fell across the lounge insensible. A third shot went ever the head of Schweigert's daughter and lodged in the wall near a window, while a fourth whitzed past Mrs. Schweigert's face and went through a pane of glass. The girl nearly fainted, while Mrs. Schweigert, in her excitement, jumped from a window to the vard.

Meanwhile Schweigert had run from behind thekounter in his store to the roomlywhere Dorsch was doing the shooting. Before Dorsch could explode the fifth cartridge Schweigert seized. him, Dorsch pointed the revolver at Schweigert's forehead, but before he could pull the trigger Schweigert pushed away the hand holding the weapon and then struggled with Dorsch to overpower him. Dorsch fell on his face. Meanwhile the screams of Mrs. Schweigert had brought Policeman Cook.

Mrs. Dorsch was sent to St. Marr's Hospital, where it is said she will die. Dorsch's wound is not dangerous.

The police learned last night that Dorsch about two years ago had taken and squandered more than $1,500 which had taken his wife years to save and which, she kept in a trunk.

Coroner Delap late last night took the wo-man's ante-mortem statement as well as she could give it. She said her husband was lazy and a drunkard and that because she refused to live with him again he shot her.

THE SO-CALLED OIL TRUST.

An Independent Producer Said It Was Made

Possible By Railroad Discrimination. WASHINGTON, June 17 .- The Industrial Commission to-day heard N. L. Lockwood, an oil producer of Zelienople, Pa., formerly a member of the Pennsylvania Legislature, who delivered a prepared speech against the Standard Oll Company. He detailed the growth of the company by absorption of rival concerns, and said that the so-called oil trust was possible through the discrimination of the railroads who, since 1872, had favored the Standard as against the independent producers to such an extent that the latter were unable compete with the trust. He declared that testimony in different investigations showed a profit in oil for the Standard company of $2 a barrel, which was above 400 per cent. He charged that the railroads were you don't care whether it is done by Dick Turpin with a pistol or by John Rockefeller with a railroad." The trusts, he added, had taken so much money from the people that they did not know what to do with it all. There was no remedy as long as the railroads were controlled know what to do with it all. There was no remedy as long as the railroads were controlled by the corporations. If the Government owned the railroads it could offer the indi-vidual producer equal facilities with the trusts, and the individuals could then compete on fair and the individuals could then compete on fair terms.

Commissioner Kennedy asked if he did not consider freight discrimination the mother of all trusts. Mr. Lockwood said he did.

Representative Livingston wanted to know if the question was asked for political purposes. Mr. Kennedy replied that it was not.

The testimony to-day regarding trusts closed the inquiry in that line until September. During the summer the commission will devote its time to investigating agricultural questions, while sub-commistees will look into coal production, mining and transportation. In September the commission will resume its inquiry into the various trusts, and John D. Rockefeller, Arbuckle and others will appear.

He will visit Smith College on Monday, and will go to Mount Helyoke again Tuesday morning to attend the graduation exercises, the President presenting the diplomas.

LIGHTING COMPANIES COMBINE.

Extension of the New York and Queens Gas and Electric Company. Jamatca, L. I., June 17.-The New York and Queens Gas and Electric Company has absorbed all the lesser electric and gas companies in the borough of Queens save the Electric Illuminating Company in Long Island City. The consolidating and combining of the various interests became known to-day through the flling in Albany of a certificate of merger. by which the Newtown Light and Power Company, the New York and Queens Light and Power Company and the Flushing Gas and Electric Light Company were all merged into the new New York and Queens Gas and Electric Company. It is understood that the Electric Company. It is understood that the new company is simply a continuation of the Whitney syndicate, which some time ago obtained control of the electric and gas plants in Jamaica and also in the Fifth ward of the borough, which comprises Far Rockaway and Rockaway Beach. The franchises now held by the syndicate, it is prophesied, will be worth millions of dollars in a few years.

The New York and Queens Gas and Electric Company was organized only a few days ago for the purpose of absorbing the compaules named. The capital stock has been placed at $1,000,000 and the directors of the new corporation are Charles F. Matthewson, John Frederick Eagle and Edward C. Wilson, all of Manhattan; Henry L. Snyder of Montelair, N. J., and Edward J. Patterson of Plainfield, N. J. The objects of the new company are to manufacture and deliver gas and electric light, heat and power to any part of the city of New York.

ANACONDA COPPER MINES SOLD. Daly and Associates Sell to a Rockefeller Syndicate for $23,000,000.

SALT LAKE, Utah, June 16 .- Marcus Daly and his associates have sold out their interests in the Anaconda copper mines in Montana to syndicate headed by John D. Rockefeller for a onsideration of $23,000,000. Of this amount Mr. Daly receives $6,000,000; J. B. Haggin $9,000,000 and Lloyd Tevis of San Francisco $8,000,000. In the transfer is included practically the entire town of Anaconda, with its mines and smelters, coal and timber lands. Mr. Daly has agreed to remain as manager of the property for a year at a salary of $25,000, while Haggin and Tevis sever their connection with the property entirely, leaving the Rockefellers in control.

Mr. Daly and Charles Larrabee purchased in 1880 the nucleus of what became the great Anaconda mine. In 1882 Larrabee sold his entire interest and Daly soid half of his to George Hearst and J. B. Haggin. Hearst was dealing for himself, but Lloyd Tevis was jointly interested with Haggin. The mines paid enormous dividends from the start and provided funds for all the development of the properties. mines and smelters, coal and timber lands.

PATRIOTIC CELEBRATION.

Gov. Voorhees and Others Inspect the Belics in the Old Wallace House.

SOMERVILLE, N. J., June 17.-The anniver eary of the battles of Bunker Hill and of Millstone was celebrated here to-day at the Wal-lace House, Washington's headquarters, by the New Jersey Memorial Society. A large number of Daughters of the American Revolution, including the State Regent, Miss E. E. Batcheler, were present, as were representatives from various patriotic organizations of New York. Philadelphia, Trenton, Newark, Jersey City, Hoboken and New Brunswick.

A business meeting of the society presided over by President Richard F. Stevens o Newark was held in the morning. Mrs. Cad-mus Park of Hoboken and James Brown, Jr., of this place were elected trustees of the society In the afternoon formal exercises were held

In the afternoon formal exercises were held under the ancient oak tree on the great lawn in front of the historical Wallace House. President Stevenson introduced Mrs. Washington Roebling of Trenton, who delivered an address on the old English prison ships during the Revolution. Dr. Frazer of Philadelphia also made an address.

Gov. Foster M. Voorhees was to speak, but it was late in the afternoon when the time arrived for him to do so. He declined to prolong the extended exercises with an address, but went through the usual hand shaking with the large audience in the reception hall. A collation was served to the visitors on the lawn by the ladies of Somerville.

The Wallace House was inspected by the visitors who were interested in the valuable collection of historical relics placed in it during the past year.

ARMY CANTEEN ILLEGAL

Violation of the Laws of Pennsylvania to HARBISHURO, Pa., June 17.-Judge Simonton gave an important ruling to-day affecting army canteens. James B. Moore and Patrick Joyce were arrested at the instance of the Anti-Saloon League of the State for selling iquor at the army canteen at Camp Meade. Their defence was that they were conducting he canteen according to army regulations under the supervision of the commanding offitablished in compliance with the directions of Adjt.-Gen. Corbin. It was contended on behalf of the prosecution that the regulations of the army furnished no protection to the persons found guilty under the liquor laws of Pennsyl-found guilty under the liquor laws of Pennsylvania.

Judge Simonton said there was no evidence of a wilful purpose to violate the laws of the State, and directed the jury to render a verdict of guilty. He then suspended sentence. He said, however, that the intention of the defendants was no defence, and that there had been a violation of the laws of Pennsylvania. He said that any further violations at Camp Meade would be punished. The commanding officer at Camp Meade was present and assured the Court that no canteen would hereafter be conducted under his supervision, and that he would communicate the action of the Court to his superior officers.

The Anti-Salvon League proposes to proceed in this way against all canteens.
